This past year has been one of great accomplishment and transitions at the Brookline Community Foundation (BCF), with a new executive director bringing extensive leadership experience to the Foundation, and our president completing nearly a decade of work on behalf of Brookline and BCF. We are thrilled to announce our new board president, Frank Steinfield, who has been a trustee since 2008 and served as vice president for the past three years.

Our trustees continue to provide leadership and expertise across a range of fields, and we are grateful for the considerable time and resources they contributed this year. Operationally, BCF made big strides in hiring talented staff for key positions and by completing a massive transfer of data to a new, more powerful database, which brings BCF’s financial and grant-making infrastructure into the 21st century. We also hosted one of our most successful events to date, where we shared findings of a first-of-its-kind report, “Understanding Brookline,” with a sold-out audience of town leaders and citizens.

There is much work to be done as we build on these achievements. BCF, today, has three main priorities: We provide community leadership by building public understanding of the town’s changing needs, we award strategic grants to organizations poised to make the greatest difference in the community, and we cultivate local philanthropy by helping donors to multiply their impact.

We are currently developing a three-year strategic plan to ensure that BCF remains well positioned to take on the challenges that we face as a community and help make Brookline the best it can be.

As we look ahead, we feel privileged to be members of a vibrant community with active citizens, innovative non-profits, and supportive local businesses. As the generosity and participation of so many of you demonstrate, Brookline residents are invested in the well-being of each other and our town. Together, we are building a better Brookline.

Sincerely,

JENNY AMORY
Executive Director

JUDITH H. KIDD
President, Board of Trustees
As the only community foundation for the town, the Brookline Community Foundation (BCF) is committed to building public understanding of our community’s needs and to engaging residents in finding solutions to shared challenges. Through research and convening, we aim to explore timely topics of importance to our community, inform and enhance public dialogue, and shine a spotlight on issues that require collective thinking and action.

In 2012, BCF invested in consolidating our latest research efforts for public dissemination. “Understanding Brookline: Emerging Trends and Changing Needs” (released in 2013) draws on U.S. Census and other data, as well as interviews with local leaders, to provide an up-to-date profile of our town. The publication represents a renewed commitment from the BCF Board of Trustees to the Foundation’s role as a community leader, inspiring residents to join with us in building a better Brookline.

“Through its Understanding Brookline initiative, the Brookline Community Foundation exemplifies how an organization can support town leaders in designing creative solutions to the town’s challenges.”

— PATRICK DOBER, Executive Director, Brookline Housing Authority
The Brookline Community Foundation (BCF) promotes a strong, vibrant, and inclusive community with grants that address the needs of Brookline’s most vulnerable populations and improve the quality of life of all residents. Each year we combine gifts from hundreds of donors to build the capacity of successful non-profits and nurture innovative new programs and partnerships. Our grants respond to important local needs, such as access to housing, education, and health care. BCF funds also strengthen local arts and culture organizations and promote a healthy, environmentally sustainable Brookline.

The BCF staff and Board of Trustees monitor trends across the town in order to direct funds to those organizations and initiatives that have the potential to make the greatest difference in our community.

With the help from the Brookline Community Foundation grant, we were able to provide low-income and often isolated elders with the benefits of an exercise program. Perhaps the greatest satisfaction came from a participant who explained that she can now walk up her stairs unassisted after taking our class.”

— RUTHANN DOBEK, Director, Brookline Council on Aging
In 2012, BCF distributed more than $980,000 to 17 organizations that are making a difference in Brookline. BCF offers three cycles of grants through the Brookline Youth Fund, the Brookline Teen Grantmakers program, and the Fall Community Grants program, as well as the BCF Safety Net program.

Select grantees are highlighted below. All received grants from BCF’s Unrestricted Fund, except where noted.

Brookline Community Mental Health Center (BCMHC)
$7,893.81 Brookline Resilient Youth Team helps teens re-enter school after hospitalization. Two school-based social workers and a classroom aide work closely with students and their families during medical crises and through the four-to-eight-week re-entry process. • BHRYT-Anderson Fund

Brookline Housing Authority (BHA)
$10,000 Community Assistance Network provides case management and social services to Brookline residents who struggle with serious mental illness. Clients are supported to live independently and productively with guidance related to housing, finances, medical needs, hygiene, and other life skills. • Brookline Youth Fund

Brookline Council on Aging plans, coordinates, and provides services that keep elders independent and functioning as vital members of the community. This grant supported a part-time fitness instructor for low-income elders. • Brookline Youth Fund

Brookline Early Education Program’s Summer Sparks is a four-week program that delivers literacy programming to children and families in Brookline public housing, helping them develop and maintain literacy skills over the summer. • Brookline Youth Fund

Brookline Housing Authority (BHA)
$10,000 Family Learning Centers provide computer access and training to public housing residents and serve as sites for English-language and employment programs. This grant enabled the centers to purchase new computers compatible with current technology. • Brookline Youth Fund

Brookline Recreation Department
$18,000 Camp Scholarship Program increases access to affordable, high-quality, full-day summer programs where children engage in active play, creative activities, and purposeful socializing with peers. • Brookline Youth Fund

$4,000 Brookline LEADS provides transitional career development for young adults with disabilities, placing students in internship and work experiences at Brookline recreational facilities. • Brookline Teen Grantmakers

$3,890 The City School provides innovative, out-of-school time programming for teens focused on social issues and civic engagement. This grant supported Brookline teens’ participation in City School’s Summer Leadership Program. • Brookline Youth Fund

$5,000 Coolidge Corner Theater is a cultural and business anchor of the Coolidge Corner neighborhood, with a mission to build a vital community through film culture. The funds were used to help the theatre upgrade its projection and sound systems in order to meet the new standards of the film industry and remain in operation. • Brookline Youth Fund

$6,000 Emerald Necklace Conservancy’s Green Team and Youth Leadership Program employ youth from Brookline and Boston to improve Emerald Necklace parks while receiving environmental and conservation education, leadership development, and job skills training. • Brookline Youth Fund

The Brookline Community Foundation (BCF) helps individuals and corporations make a difference locally. We cultivate a culture of philanthropy in Brookline by making it easy for residents to give and to see their influence in the community. Whether it’s a modest, one-time gift or a multi-year legacy, we partner with donors to invest in areas that matter to them, pooling their gifts with others to multiply their impact. All gifts are professionally managed and monitored by a committee of investment professionals.

Together, BCF donors make a tangible difference in Brookline, providing timely support to neighbors in need and promoting innovative programs that make Brookline a stronger, more vibrant community.

"We invested in BCF with a three-year Leadership Fund contribution because, for us, the Brookline Community Foundation represents the collective will of our neighbors to live in a town that values and supports all individuals. We support their work because BCF is committed to innovation and change for the long-term benefit of Brookline."

— MELISSA LANGA & JEFF WULFSON

The Brookline Community Foundation (BCF) exists to promote a strong, engaged, and inclusive community. We envision a diverse and vibrant Brookline, where an ethic of philanthropy, equity, volunteerism and civic engagement ensures that everyone's basic needs for social services, education and housing are met, the arts flourish, and the environment thrives.

GIVE WHERE YOU LIVE

You can make a difference in keeping Brookline strong and vital. The Brookline Community Foundation (BCF) relies on donations to offer grants to programs such as the Brookline Council on Aging, the Brookline Emergency Food Pantry, and Brookline Extended Day Advisory Council that are meeting crucial needs in our community. With your support, we can do more to make Brookline a great place to live.

You can be a part of our efforts by giving online at brooklinecommunity.org or by sending a donation to:
